Morse, who was sentenced on Nov. 9 of last year to serve fifteen years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for violation of the banking laws and who since has been kept locked up in the Tombs pending his appeal, left the prison in Center street Wednesday afternoon for the first time since his imprisonment began and drove directly to Wall street. There he transacted various business with his former associates, and after an hour returned to the Tombs.

The permission for Wednesday's little excursion into the financial district is to continue as long as Morse is confined in the Tombs, and he will make the trip often, if not every day.

MAY BE PROVIDENCE BURGLARS.

Men Arrested in Washington Charged With Numerous Breaks.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 19.—The burglars who looted the safe of the Hoffman Haus cafe at 1200 on Jan. 23, and who stole several thousand dollars' worth of furs from the store of Kaps & Reinhardt last November, are believed to be in the custody of the Washington police, according to an announcement made at police headquarters here yesterday. While the men under arrest at Washington have not been definitely connected with the breaks in this city, it is the opinion of the police, judging from the character of the operations here as compared with breaks said to have been made in other cities by the men now under arrest, that all were the work of the same band.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 19.—In his budget address in the legislature, Finance Minister Taitow shows a surplus of $1,500,000. The public debt has been reduced from $11,000,000 to $9,500,000 within a year. The minister promises still greater development when the A. R. ## BLOCKADING BY LA FOLLETTE

He Tries Insurgent Tactics on Post Office Bill

SHARP REPLY TO RESPONSE

Wisconsin Senator Protests Against Immediate Consideration of Post Office Appropriation Bill, Carrying $26,000,000.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator La Follette again blocked the legislative program in the Senate yesterday. The post office appropriation bill, carrying $26,000,000, was laid before the Senate at the request of Senator Penrose, chairman of the committee on post offices and post roads.

Mr. LaFollette was presented and primed for action. He rose when the bill was produced and protested against its immediate consideration. "The committee has had this bill under consideration for twenty days," he said, "although it appears on our desks this morning for the first time, we are not even informed as to its features, and the only information as to what it contains is in the five lines of printed report."

The Senator from Wisconsin declared that the bill was "too important to be rushed through under pressure." "I will explain the provisions to the Senator from Wisconsin as the consideration of the bill progresses," said Chairman Penrose.

But Mr. LaFollette asked for a day to consider the bill and urged that it go over for a day. Mr. Penrose would not consent to the postponement. He said the Senate committee had made few changes in the House bill, adding only $50,000 to the bill.

Mr. LaFollette could have read the print of the House bill. Failing to agree, Mr. Penrose took summary action by moving to proceed to the consideration of the bill without further delay.

His motion prevailed, but Mr. LaFollette voted "no," and warned the Senator from Pennsylvania that he could gain no time by "crowding things."

Mr. LaFollette could have read the print of the House bill. Failing to agree, Mr. Penrose took summary action by moving to proceed to the consideration of the bill without further delay.

At this point the bill was laid aside temporarily to permit Senator Gary to make a speech on immigration subjects.

NEW HAMPSHIRE FLIES FLAG.

A Banner Officially Adopted by the Legislature.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 10.—For the first time in its history, New Hampshire has a legally established state flag, the state Senate having passed a House bill providing for the adoption of the flag carried through the C. I. and Spanish Wars as the official state banner. Although this standard, which bears the state seal on a field of blue, surrounded by nine stars, was carried by New Hampshire soldiers on many battlefields in the two wars and for years has waved over brigades headquarters at the encampments of the State National Guard, it was never officially made the state emblem. The discovery of this fact several months ago gave rise to an interesting controversy between state officials and patriotic society leaders. The former contended that the New Hampshire flag had no state flag legally, while the latter claimed the newly adopted standard as the legal one. A flood of bills authorizing state flags, and providing for a variety of designs, was introduced into the legislature, but all were sidetracked in favor of the battle honored banner which was adopted.

TARIFF CUT TO HIT TRUSTS

Reductions of One-half in Steel, Iron Glass AND COAL SCHEDULES

This Is the Plan of the House, But Aldrich Is in the Senate and He Holds the Whip Hand.

Washington, Feb. 19.—That the tariff rates on lumber, glass, and iron and steel are to be cut in half is the prediction made here yesterday concerning the bill that is to be introduced at the special session of Congress.

Feeling is strong among certain Republicans that the House's famous saying "The tariff is the mother of the trusts" sums up the situation, and the big corporations now known as trusts, and of whose rapidly increasing prosperity there seems to be no doubt, will be made to stand the brunt of the revision.

With the date for the meeting of the extra session fixed as March 15 it is declared the Republicans of the ways and means committee will hasten the new bill to a conclusion. About four weeks remain in which they can perfect the measure, and it is the expectation the measure will be ready to lay before the House on the first day of the special session.

Great secrecy surrounds the bill that the Republican members of the committee are framing. Several reasons are given for this. One is that the committee wants to be pestered as little as possible by agents of interests who may find their pet schedules lowered. Another reason is that the committee wants business agitation as little as possible. A third reason is that it is not the purpose to make the bill public for the study and scrutiny of the Democrats any sooner than is absolutely needed.

Nevertheless, echoes of what is going on within the recesses of the inner sanctum of the ways and means committee are audible. They indicate that the Republicans on the committee have gone over the proposed schedules once. It is pretty well settled how various schedules will stand, but there are others which are not yet settled.

The Democrats on the committee are going over the proposed schedules. They are determining what rate of duty the various items should bear. They are practically framing a bill, though they are not actually drawing one up. They intend to wait until the Republican bill comes out and then make such alterations in rates in the Republican bill as they consider warranted. Only to this extent will they draw a new bill.

They intend to have everything in readiness so that when the Republican bill is forthcoming all that will be necessary if the Republican measure does not suit them will be the clerical work of changing schedules.

The Republicans on the committee are having considerable trouble agreeing on the various schedules. In the first place, this is the first time the Republicans have been called on to make considerable reductions in duties. Generally speaking, revision of the tariff upward has been the Republican task. This year, the sentiment of the country is interpreted as favoring revision downward, and the Republican members of the ways and means committee, rather a part of them, are acting accordingly. Then there is a general cleavage of opinion between the eastern and western members of the committee. The eastern Republicans incline to free raw materials, and the western members incline the other way. This general difference makes agreement difficult.

But that important reductions in duties are to be looked for when the tariff bill comes out of committee is taken for granted. This will be the case despite the opposition of some of the committee to any considerable lowering of duties. It is reported from the public census that the tariff on lumber duty from $2 to $1. This would be cutting the tariff in half on lumber not manufactured.

Nobody doubts that there will be important reductions in the iron and steel schedules. Half the steel and iron duties in some cases are likely to be lopped off.

On coal there is much difference of opinion, for the reason that some coal men want a reciprocal arrangement with Canada and others do not. Coal men about the Great Lakes will be satisfied with free exchange of coal with Canada. Others in the interior are not converted to it.
